

Methods For Fighting The Epidemic Of Tune Illiteracy

For the past 20-plus years, I've had the honor of teaching in a wide variety of didactic situations, from jazz camps and performing arts high schools to universities and prestigious jazz institutes. If you were to approach each of the incredible jazz masters and pedagogues I've taught alongside and ask them, "What's the best way to learn how to play jazz?" you're sure to get many, many different answers: go to school, don't go to school, go to New York, go to New Orleans, transcription books are a great tool, using transcription books is cheating, look at your bandmates, close your eyes, and the contradictions go on and on.

However, while professional jazz musicians might disagree on just about everything else, I've found there are two areas in which just about everyone is in accord, and adamantly so. Whether their specialty is traditional, bebop, contemporary, or anything in between, it's been my experience that most great jazz players advocate that in order to play this music you must 1) listen to it constantly, and 2) memorize a whole lot of tunes—at least a couple hundred. Since virtually everyone's favorite players agree that these two activities are vital to becoming a jazz musician, it never ceases to amaze me that so many students have to run to a fakebook to play "What Is This Thing Called Love" or even "Billie's Bounce"! Tune illiteracy among young up-and-coming jazz players is far too rampant.

To help fight this malady, I've put together a systematic method for memorizing and, equally important, retaining the essential standard jazz repertoire (there's nothing worse than finding yourself on a gig and having a tune called that you "used to know"). Also equally if not more important is thoroughly listening to the definitive recordings; that is, learning the intros, rhythmic hits, harmony parts, backgrounds, endings and whatever else those in the know, know. And, of course, transcribing at least a phrase or two from your favorite solo on each tune provides you with additional vocabulary and insight, not to mention credibility when you quote it, indicating to your peers that you, too, are in the know.

Following is a list of nine sequential steps for learning any tune:

- 1) Listen to the definitive recording numerous times.
- 2) Memorize the form.

Common forms include:

- 12-bar blues (e.g., "Tenor Madness," "Now's The Time," "Mr. PC," "Footprints," "Blues For Alice")
- 16-bar tune (e.g., "Watermelon Man," "Cantaloupe Island," "Blue Bossa," "Summertime," "Doxo")
- AABA (e.g., "I Got Rhythm," "Impressions," "Maiden Voyage," "Satin Doll," "Body And Soul")
- ABAC (e.g., "All Of Me," "All Of You," "On Green Dolphin Street")

Uncommon forms include:

- AAB (e.g., "Song For My Father")
- AACB (e.g., "Autumn Leaves")

Be on the lookout for tunes with other odd forms, for example:

- "Alone Together": AABA' (14-bar first A, 14-bar second A,

8-bar bridge and 8-bar last A)

- "Moment's Notice": ABAB'V (8-bar first A, 8-bar first B, 8-bar second A, 6-bar second B, 8-bar vamp with B-flat pedal)
- "Peace": 10-bar tune
- "Stablemates": ABA (14-bar first A, 8-bar bridge, 14-bar last A)
- "Yes Or No": AABA (14-bar A sections with a 16-bar bridge)

3) Memorize the root movement; play roots with definitive or play-along recording.

4) Memorize the chord qualities; play chords (arpeggios in quarter notes) with play-along recording as follows:

- 1–3–5–7–9 for chords lasting two bars (have the 9th sustain for the second bar)
- 1–3–5–7 for chords lasting one bar
- 1–3 for chords lasting two beats
- For II–V–I progressions in major, play:

• For II–V–I progressions in minor, play:

Also practice having the final 7th in the penultimate measure resolve to the 6th (instead of the 9th) in the last measure.

- 5) Play related scales in eighth notes (if the chord lasts for two bars, have the 9th sustain for the second bar; for chords lasting two beats, just play 1–2–3–4).
- 6) Memorize the head; play with definitive and play-along recordings while thinking of the changes.
- 7) Improvise with play-along recording.
- 8) Transcribe phrases from definitive recording.
- 9) Improvise with play-along recording, incorporating phrases transcribed from the definitive recording.

By executing these basic steps, you will not only thoroughly know the root movement, chord qualities and head of each new tune you learn, you will have internalized their definitive recordings, one of the most important aspects of becoming a good jazz player. And, through this process, you will also learn how chords progress, understand substitutions, have hundreds of quotable phrases for improvisation, develop your ear and time feel, have credibility and be employable.

The list of "must-know" tunes can be found in the book Pocket Changes along with their most common chord progressions. I also recommend David Baker's book How to Learn Tunes (both available through jazzbooks.com). Please stay tuned for my methodic procedure for memorizing, reviewing and retaining all the tunes on the list in part 2 of this article in an upcoming issue.

Tune Learning Order of Events

(do in the following order for each tune)

1. listen to the definitive recording numerous times; memorize the personnel (see pp. 15-25)
2. memorize the form (see pp. 5-6)
3. memorize root movement, play roots with definitive and play-along recordings (see examples 1 & 4 on pp. 3 & 4)
4. memorize chord qualities, play chords (arpeggios) with definitive and play-along recordings as follows (see examples 2 & 5 on pp. 3 & 4):
  - 1 3 5 7 9 for chords lasting two bars (have the 9th sustain for the second bar)
  - 1 3 5 7 for chords lasting one bar
  - 1 3 for chords lasting two beats
  - for II V I's in major, play:*

- for II V I's in minor, play:*

5. play related scales in eighth notes with definitive and play-along recordings as follows: for chords that last two bars, have the 9th sustain for the second bar; for chords that last one bar, play the scale 1-8; for chords that last two beats, just play 1 2 3 4 (see examples 3 & 6 on pp. 3 & 4)
6. memorize head, play with definitive and play-along recording
7. improvise with play-along recording
8. transcribe phrases from definitive recording
9. improvise with play-along recording, incorporating phrases transcribed from definitive recording
10. learn definitive intros & endings, hits, harmony parts, backgrounds, shout choruses, idiomatic keyboard and/or bass figures, lyrics, and anything else on the definitive recording that those in the know, know.

* You may also have the final 7th in the penultimate measure resolve to the 6th in the last measure (i.e., practice ending the line on both the 9th and 6th)

Examples of Melodic Analysis for Tune Memorization (Using the David Baker “Ear Learning” Method)

Melodies

Over the Rainbow (A section)

All diatonic.

Leaps are 1-8, 1-6, 6-4

Sugar

All minor pentatonic.

Starts on root; highest note is b3, lowest is b7

Blue Bossa

Think relative major scale.

First phrase: start on 3rd, octave leap, descend the major scale, leap back up to 3rd.

Second phrase: descend major scale from the note you’re on (2nd), leap back up to 2nd.

Third phrase: key center moves down a whole step, descend major scale from the note you’re on (2nd), leap of a perfect 4th (3rd to 6th of key).

Fourth phrase: back to original key, play 435, 435, 43.

Afternoon in Paris

Memorize changes first (of course). Relate melody to changes -- it’s nothing more than scales and arpeggios (plus a descending leap of a 4th: 5 to 2). Notice that when the chord changes from major to minor, the 3rd descends to the b3rd then ascends the minor 9 arpeggio (b3 5 b7 9). Going up a minor 9 arpeggio from the b3 is the same as going up a major 7 arpeggio from the root: Cmi9 arpeggio from the b3 (Eb G Bb D) = Ebma7 arpeggio from the root (Eb G Bb D) So...whatever note that b3rd happens to be, simply go up its ma7 arpeggio.

Tune Learning Common Chord Progression Theory

1. II V I in major: II- V7 I (D- G7 C).*
2. II V I in minor: II<sup>o</sup> V7alt (or V7<sup>b9</sup>) I-(or I-<sup>Δ</sup>) (D<sup>o</sup> G7alt C-).

3. Most common chord progression: I VI- II- V7 (C A- D- G7).

Variations include:

- The VI chord may be minor, dominant 7, dominant 7<sup>b9</sup>, or dominant 7 altered.
- Subs for the VI chord include bII<sup>o</sup>, bIII<sup>o</sup>, and bIII-.
- The V chord may be dominant 7, dominant 7<sup>b9</sup>, or dominant 7 altered.
- bII7 may be substituted for the V7 (this is the same as V7alt with a b5 in the bass).
- III- may be substituted for the I chord.

(For further variations and substitutions, see David Baker's How to Play Bebop, Vol. 3).

4. Common Homonyms (same upper structure, different root):

- a. II-6 = V7 (D-6 [D F A B] = G7 [G B D F A]) so... II- V7 = II- II-6

(only one note changes between the II- and the V7: the 7th of the II- moves down 1/2 step and becomes the 3rd of the V7 (D- G7 = D- D-6)).

- b. IV-6 = bVII7 (F-6 [F Ab C D] = Bb7 [Bb D F Ab C]).

- c. II- = IV6 (D- [D F A C] = F6 [F A C D]).

- d. IΔ = III- (CΔ [C E G B D] = E- [E G B D]).

- e. I6 = VI- (C6 [C E G A] = A- [A C E G]).

- f. Any diminished chord = four diminished chords. Any chord tone can be considered the root

- g. Any diminished chord = four dominant 7b9 chords. Their roots are 1/2 step lower than each chord tone

- h. V7<sup>b9</sup> = a diminished chord built from any chord tone but the root (3, 5, b7, b9)

- i. V7 = bII7alt = VII<sup>o</sup> = II-6

(G7 [G B D F A] = Db7alt [Db F A B D] = B<sup>o</sup> [B D F A] = D-6 [D F A B]).

* II- (D-) = IImi7 (Dmi7)

5. Common Occurrences:

- a. Chords move around the cycle (up by 4th); this is the most common root movement.
- b. Chords move down by half step (tritone sub of cycle movement).
- c. IV (or IV-) is often followed by IV-6 (which equals bVII7--cycle movement).
- d. IV-6 (bVII7) usually proceeds to I.
- e. Major chords become minor, then move around the cycle: II- V7 I's descending in whole steps (C C- F7 Bb Bb- Eb7 Ab etc.).
- f. Tunes usually start on the I chord.
- g. The I chord usually occurs on the 7th bar of an 8 bar section.
- h. The most common sub for the I is III-.
- i. The turnaround (short progression returning to the beginning of a section -- typically some variation of I VI- II- V7) usually occurs on the 7th bar of a section when that section is repeated (i.e., on an AABA tune, the turnaround will occur at the end of the 1st and last A, not the second A).
- j. II chords (which are usually minor) are sometimes dominant.
- k. Jazzers like to make the II7 chord lydian dominant (II7+4).
- l. II7 is usually followed by II-.
- m. The most common substitute for V7 is II- V7 and vice versa.
- n. The next most common sub for the V7 is the bII7 (their 3rds and b7ths are inverted -- the 3rd and 7th are the two most important notes of any chord).
- o. II- chords will sometimes progress up 3 half steps to the IV-, then proceed to I via the bVII7 (D- F- Bb7 C). This is often used as a substitute for II- V7 I.
- p. Altered dominant chords (G7alt, G7b9, G7+, etc.) are often substituted for regular dominant 7 chords as long as the alteration doesn't clash with the melody. In jazz (during the improvised solos), altered dominants are used even more often.
- q. Chromatic Passing Diminished Chords are often used to connect two diatonic chords a whole step apart. They are usually found between the I & II- and/or the II- & III- (C C#° D- D#° E-).
- r. Root movement of a tritone: usually from a major chord to a minor or half diminished chord which in turn becomes the first chord of a II V progression in either major or minor (Eb A- D7 or Eb Aø D7alt G-).
- s. Anything can follow the I chord.

6. Some parallel motion:

- a. To progress from I7 to VI7alt (as in the 7th and 8th bar of a blues), simply move the I7 chord up 3 half steps (Bb7 Db7 = Bb7 G7alt).
- b. To progress from II° to V7alt (II V in minor), simply move the II° chord up 3 half steps (Dø Fø = Dø G7alt).

Order of Tunes for Sequential Teaching and Learning

Following is a list of 25 tunes arranged from easy (but still GREAT must-knows) to more difficult. This is an excellent place to start as every subsequent tune on the list utilizes something (e.g., chords) from the previous tune(s). Beginning with easier tunes on which to improvise, they are sequenced in a logical order of chord/scale theory knowledge and improvisation skill acquisition. The list also includes must-know staples like blues in Bb and F, minor blues, and rhythm changes.

Learning the tunes in the following order will provide constant reinforcement of skills/knowledge attained on the previous tune(s) while acquiring new skills/knowledge on each subsequent tune. Most of the tunes on the list can be found in Jamey Aebersold Play-Along Volumes 54 (Maiden Voyage) and 70 (Killer Joe).

Methods For Fighting The Epidemic Of Tune Illiteracy {Part 2}

Perhaps the only thing worse than not knowing a tune when it's called on a gig or jam session is not knowing a tune you used to know. It's disheartening (and embarrassing) not to be able to play something you once could, simply for lack of review.

On the other hand, having every tune you've ever learned right under your fingertips, while you still continue to add to your repertoire, makes for a higher level of confidence that allows you the freedom to actually create jazz rather than worrying about what the next change is.

Following is a systematic method for learning new tunes and reviewing old ones. The three-component system is based on spending one hour per day divided into three 20-minute sessions: 1) Learning a New Tune, 2) New Tune Review and 3) Old Tune Review. Note that this method, based on the principles of short-term, medium-term and long-term memory, will only work if you do not skip days. Practicing seven days in a row over a period of time is key.

Long-term memory requires "rehearsal," that is, doing or thinking about something over and over. What makes one forget is twofold: lack of rehearsal and "interference," that is, thinking of things other than what you're trying to remember. The longer you go without reviewing, the more interference there is, hence, the sooner you forget.

Think of your memory as a large funnel: As you pour information into the wide end at the top, it slowly drips out the narrow end at the bottom. In order to keep the funnel full, you must continually replenish (review tunes). If you allow the funnel to empty, you have to start over, that is, re-learn the tunes (which takes a lot longer than simply reviewing them once they're memorized). It's not how much you practice that matters, it's how often. Indeed, practicing one hour per day/seven days a week is usually far more productive than practicing, say, 14 hours on the weekend only. Even though the latter adds up to twice as many hours at the end of the week, the funnel tends to empty during the five days off.

The good news is that the more you review, the less you'll have to. Eventually, the tunes will become part of your long-term memory, meaning they'll be with you forever (like becoming fluent in a language). The goal is to speak jazz as effortlessly as you speak English or whatever your native language is. The following steps will help get you there:

- 1) Learn New Tune (20 minutes)—This could be the whole tune, just the changes, or even just the root movement. The point is to learn something new daily. (For a systematic method on learning new tunes, see Part 1 of this article in the May 2010 issue.)
- 2) New Tune Review (20 minutes)—Once a tune is memorized, play two choruses (the changes as described in Part 1 of this article for the first chorus, then the head while thinking of the changes for the second) every day for seven days in a row. This helps put the tune in your long-term memory. Once you've played it by heart for seven consecutive days, list it in your "old tune review bin."
- 3) Old Tune Review (20 minutes)—Each day, review five tunes in your old tune review bin. This should take no longer than four minutes per tune (two minutes to review the form and changes, another couple to review the head). Circulate through the bin, always picking up where you left off. For example, if you know 50 tunes you would review tunes 1–5 on day one, tunes 6–10 on day two, 11–15 on day three and so on. By the time you finish practicing on day 10, you will have reviewed them all. And if you kept up with steps 1 and 2, you will have added a few more tunes to the bin during that time. Review those, then start with tunes 1–5 again, then 6–10, etc., and continue to circulate through your list. By the time you have 150 tunes in the bin, you'll be reviewing each of them once per month. When you have 300, they'll only get reviewed once per two months, but that will be enough provided you have followed the steps religiously.

Executing these three steps daily for a couple of years will put the tunes in your long-term memory; they'll become part of you. You will not only have significantly increased your repertoire, you will have gained the sense of confidence and freedom that only comes from truly knowing tunes.

A list of the must-know tunes along with their most common chord progressions can be found in the book Pocket Changes (available online through jazzbooks.com). Regarding the order in which to learn them, I suggest you make a tune checklist as in the following example:

- 1) Take inventory of the tunes you really know (K). "Really" knowing a tune means that you can write the chord changes down quickly on a cocktail napkin, and if you're playing with someone you want to impress and the tune is called, you feel an overwhelming sense of relief! Check those tunes first and put them into your old tune review bin.

- 2) Next, check the tunes you "sort of know" (SK). This means you pretty much know them but they don't quite meet the criteria above.
- 3) Work on the "sort-of-know" tunes, getting them up to speed so they meet the "know" criteria; then move them into the "know" column. This should go relatively quickly.
- 4) Once you have all the "sort-of-know" tunes in the "know" column, work on the "don't know" (DK) tunes.
- 5) Before learning any tune, make sure you own the definitive recording. If you do, check the ODR (own definitive recording) box; if not, purchase or download the recording, listen to it a lot, then check it off in the ODR column.

Tune	DK	SK	K	ODR
1 After You've Gone
